Big Creek Bonds Bring Good Price

The $250,000 of bonds authorized for the Big Creek drainage district were sold Tuesday to Caldwell and company of Nashville, for par and accrued interest. They are serial bonds with the longest maturity at the end of 20 years, and the yearly interest, together with the sinking fund necessary to retire the bonds at maturity, will be paid annually by the property holders of the district.

The Big Creek drainage project is notable for being the first drainage district organized solely in Shelby county. It affects 350 property holders in the Millington and Park field neighborhoods, whose property is subject to overflow by the waters of Big Creek. The drainage law provides that none but property holders receiving benefit from the project shall pay taxes for maintenance of the district, and these will be apportioned in exact ratio to the amount of benefit received.

Survey of the project was made by the engineering firm of Gaines & Carlisle. It provides for 18 main ditches and 18 laterals, and contemplates the removal of 1,500,000 cubic feet of excavation. There are 21,500 acres affected by the scheme. Contract for the work will be let soon.

The complete survey, with apportionment of taxes to those benefited by the project is now being completed, and will be ready for the official approval of Judge Guthrie next week.

Negro Methodists Hold Big Session

The conference of the Memphis-Jackson division of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church formally opened its session at 10:30 Wednesday morning at Greenwood church, South Bellevue boulevard. Bishop N. C. Cleaves, of St. Louis, presided. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. N. W. Clark, following which the Lord's supper was administered by the bishop, assisted by Revs. W. M. Womack, J. B. Boyd, A. H. Winrow and E. W. Moseley.

This conference celebrates the 50th anniversary of the organizing of the church. The present conference expects to collect $100,000 for missions and educational purposes by Sunday. $60,000 of this is already subscribed.
